

Subject: Working for the wrong master.

Dave Lewis here, and, no, this isn't a religious email.

But I do have an important question for you: Are you tired of working slave labor?

"I'm not", you might say (among some other, not so nice responses) .

"What in the world makes you think that I am working as a slave?"

Let me ask you a couple of questions:

- 1) Who is getting the benefit of your work, you or your employer? and,,
- 2) If you lost your job today, would your income continue?

If you are not happy with your answers, take a minute to check out our Digital Franchise.

Instead of working for someone else, let us work for you, and help build you a residual income and give you the free time that you always wanted.

We even will throw in a complimentary dream vacation just for taking a look. No time share presentations, we promise...just a nice getaway for you and your family at a luxury resort. So why not take a look?
